Possible answers for 23–25:

23. Putting the pills in a different bottle is a poison hazard. Sally may not remember what the pills are, what they are for, or how often to take them. Also, they may look like another medicine, and another family member may take them by mistake and get sick.
24. Putting something on the stove to cook and then leaving the room is a fire hazard. Tom might take so long in the shower that the soup boils away and the pan starts a fire.
25. Lila cannot be sure the fire is completely out. It could start up again. If it did, no one would think to look for her because she already checked in.
